Our Amis guide shows us how to catch crabs in Taiwan.

2022.04 幸娥編寫

Taiwan is home to 14 different aboriginal tribes.

The Amis, who are spread across Taiwan's mountains and eastern coastal areas, is the largest.

A short ride  took us down to the ocean, where the tribe leader demonstrated his trusty low-tech method for catching crabs.

He unveiled a cooler of cold, dead squid and handed us each a metal spear.

We gingerly skewered each squid through its face, and then drove the stake into the sand right where the ocean met the shore, squid-end first.

Fifteen minutes later we dodged the enormous crashing waves to scoop up handfuls of the wet sand that surrounded our stakes.

The tribe leader shook the sand to reveal one, two and sometimes even three crabs.
